Editor's Note

Dear readers,

In compiling our 2023 list of Denmark's most prestigious schools, we've considered a myriad of factors, from academic prowess to community engagement. This ranking showcases institutions that have consistently demonstrated excellence and innovation in education. However, it's crucial to note that prestige is multifaceted. While these schools stand out for their achievements and contributions, the broader educational landscape in Denmark is rich and varied.

We present this list not as an exhaustive authority but as a reflection of excellence within specific contexts. We invite readers to delve deeper, acknowledging that every school, irrespective of its ranking, plays a pivotal role in shaping Denmark's educational future.

On the cover, we have Herlufsholm Skole and the list includes Alnoor International Schools, Marlborough College Malaysia, and Tanarata International Schools.

We also have two articles on "The Future of Learning: How Technology is Changing the Education Landscape", "Making the Most of Study Abroad Programs: Tips for a Successful Experience" and "The Benefits of Multicultural Education in Today's Diverse Classroom".

Cover Story

In the picturesque countryside of Denmark, nestled amidst serene landscapes and along the tranquil shores of Lake Suså, Herlufsholm School stands as a beacon of educational excellence. Established in 1565, this venerable institution boasts a rich history and a commitment to nurturing young minds. With a heritage spanning over four centuries, Herlufsholm School is renowned not only for its academic prowess but also for the holistic development it provides to its students.

Herlufsholm School: A Historical Overview

Herlufsholm School, often referred to as Herlufsholm Skole in Danish, traces its origins back to the reign of King Frederik II. It was founded in 1565, originally as a seminary by the Danish king. The school was established with the primary goal of providing education to young men, primarily to prepare them for theological studies.

The institution takes its name from Herluf Trolle, a Danish nobleman, and his wife Birgitte Gøye. Their joint efforts and financial support played a pivotal role in the school's establishment, and their legacy continues to be a source of inspiration for the school's ethos and values.

Over the years, Herlufsholm School has evolved and expanded its academic offerings. While it retains a strong emphasis on theology and the humanities, it has broadened its curriculum to encompass a wide range of subjects, preparing students for a rapidly changing world.

Prominent Personality

Our Head of School is Gitte Nørgaard. She is the first female Head of School since the founder Birgitte Gøye in the year 1565. Gitte Nørgaard comes from a position as a director at Aarhus Business College and has over 25 years of leadership experience. Gitte Nørgaard began her tenure at Herlufsholm on September 1, 2022.

Beyond Traditional Curriculum

Firstly, The Herlufsholm Distinction (Herlufsholm Udmærkelsen) is a 2-year program that offers challenges to students in high school. It is mandatory for all high school students to participate.

The program is individual and reflects the personal development that students will undergo during their time at Herlufsholm. Students learn how to set goals and work persistently and enthusiastically to achieve them.

Furthermore, we offer opportunities for being active outside of class. At Herlufsholm, we believe that a diverse and challenging extracurricular life contributes to each student's personal and academic development. As such, you can participate in the school's extracurricular program as an integral part of the school day.

Additionally, the school offers a wide range of facilities and initiatives, such as school tournaments, the use of green areas for recreational activities, a parkour course, a synthetic sports field, a skate park, and a fitness room.

In the local area, students can visit a swimming pool, riding school, golf courses, cinema, library, and more. There are ample opportunities to pursue one's interests, and Herlufsholm encourages all students to lead an active life.

In addition, we have international collaborations with organizations such as Round Square, and visits to our friendship-school, Sigtuna, in Sweden. Sigtuna is our Swedish friendship school that we have been working with since 2005. We take turns visiting each other, and students from both schools spend the weekend participating in shared sports and musical activities.

Steps for Motivation

We are deeply committed to continually improving, developing the school, our students, and ourselves – both personally and professionally. We focus on seeing each individual student because, with us, everyone should feel comfortable.

We support and challenge our students for both academic and personal development through their educational journey, extracurricular activities, and a supportive and tolerant culture.

At Herlufsholm, we nurture a global perspective while maintaining local roots. We contribute to our local community and collaborate on both a national and international level with educational institutions, businesses, and organizations that create unique opportunities for learning and personal growth. Herlufsholm is a commitment to striving for more.

The high academic standards have always been a hallmark of Herlufsholm. The exceptional facilities and dedicated educators are among the factors ensuring that our students' average performance on their final exams far exceeds the national average. This equips our students with the best foundations for success in higher education.

Financial Assistance

Parents of students have the opportunity to apply for a reduction in school fees. They can apply for sibling discounts and income-based reductions in school fees.

Students over 18 years of age can apply for the Danish government's educational support program, "Statens Uddannelsesstøtte."

Thanks to the unique Herlovian community, former students have funded our scholarship program, which began in 2020. The scholarship program provides full financial support for room and board at Herlufsholm for the 3-year Pre-IB/IB or STX programs.

Every year, 5 students from public schools in Denmark are admitted to one of Herlufsholm's 3-year Pre-IB/IB or STX programs with a fully funded scholarship grant. Each public school in Denmark can nominate one student, and the application must be accompanied by a recommendation from the current school principal, a motivated application, a report card, and documentation of the family's financial situation.

Campus and Facilities

Herlufsholm is an extraordinary and unique school. The first time you visit Herlufsholm, you will experience a very special atmosphere. The historical spirit, the old buildings, and the beautiful green areas create a unique setting for education and boarding school life.

Here, you are embraced by a community that makes the time as a student exciting, fun, and occasionally challenging, and it opens doors for students as they move forward in the future.

Herlufsholm is for young individuals who seek an exciting education in historical surroundings. The school was founded in 1565 and proudly holds the distinction of being Denmark's oldest boarding school. Consequently, we have many traditions that you won't find elsewhere, including:

Testimonial

"Ever since I started at Herlufsholm in 8th grade, I have greatly appreciated the school's values of self-development and the encouragement to know more, be more, and do more. Therefore, there was no doubt in my mind that I would do my best to uphold these values when I started 1st year (1.g) last year and began my journey towards achieving the Herlufsholm Distinction. The Herlufsholm Distinction is a program that supports personal development, teaching us, students, to work persistently and passionately toward a goal we set for ourselves.

In my pursuit of the Herlufsholm Distinction, I chose to focus on charity by raising funds for SOS Children's Villages, where I have collected a total of 13,462 DKK so far. Attending a school that encourages me to develop as much as possible and having a family that supports me in this endeavor is something I am incredibly grateful for and a privilege I wish all children in the world could have. Unfortunately, that's not the case, so my fundraising has been my contribution to enabling more children to grow up in a safe environment and access education.

In addition, I have also focused on personal development and, therefore, chose to walk a section of the Camino de Santiago, as I believe it is an excellent opportunity to connect with oneself, a cornerstone of self-improvement. I walked the last 120 km of the French Camino, covering the route from Sarria to Santiago de Compostela over six days. Most of the path was in the Galicia region, known for its lush green landscapes with cultivated fields and deciduous forests. I walked between 15-24 km each day, with numerous ascents and descents through old villages and various woodlands. I crossed the Miño River and, on the third day, traversed five river valleys before arriving in Melide, an area filled with medieval castles and Romanesque churches.

These were six incredibly challenging days that pushed me in a fantastic way, and I undoubtedly got to know myself better. It's an experience I will undoubtedly carry with me for the rest of my life. It was my first, but certainly not my last time walking the Camino."

Festive balls, plays, and ceremonies where the school's founders are at the center. A school uniform that promotes uniformity while allowing for personal expression. The Herlovian language, which is used regularly in everyday life.

Examples of activities include:

- Sports: Ultimate frisbee, badminton, basketball, CrossFit, disco fitness, football, fencing, hockey, rugby, tennis, volleyball, e-sports.
- Creative: Music, singing, voice lab, visual arts, sculpting.
- Academic: Language, debate, social media, financial literacy, coding, mathematics, Model United Nations, mindfulness.

Keeping up with Education Trends

Herlufsholm has a long history, and times naturally change. Therefore, we continually modernize traditions if they are no longer relevant. In the 16th century, students slept in dormitories, but we have now abolished the dormitories because students in 2023 experience their daily lives in a completely different way.

Today, there are many more stimuli due to digitization and social media, so it's better for students to have their own rooms and the peace they need to sleep.

In the past, we also needed a small "hospital" on the school grounds, but nowadays, students are often picked up from the boarding school if they are unwell. This means that the need for many hospital beds no longer exists. As a result, we have transformed our "hospital" into a well-being center, where students can still receive care and have a good conversation with our school nurse. Additionally, there is an entire well-being team with trained personnel available for students to consult.

Honors and Accomplishments

- Since 2009, Astra has awarded Herlufsholm High School with the "Science Talent" designation.
- The Danish Ministry of Children and Education's annual national well-being survey for 2022 revealed a favorable trend in high school students' well-being across the board.
- As Denmark's first educational establishment, we released a report on the school's sustainable development in 2021.

Testimonial

"Half a year ago I heard a quote that ended up changing my life. The quote went: "Outside the comfort zone is where the magic happens". It made me wonder if I needed to push some limits to grow as a person. I was never a global explorer or excited about going on vacation far away, but when my school announced a cultural exchange to Bangladesh, I decided that even though I was scared to the center of my bones I had to apply. So, at the end of January 2023, I travelled all alone to the other side of the world to live two weeks in a foreign country without knowing what would face me. It was the first time I ever experienced a totally different culture up close, and it taught me so much.

First you get hit by a huge cultural shock. Everything seems different and strange, and you wonder how this can be anyone's life because this is not the way you would do it yourself. I mostly described Bangladesh as a chaotic country, because that is what it looked like at first, and to me it is still chaotic, but I then started to notice the small things; how friends joke around with each other, how a mother hugs her child, and you recognize the emotions and reactions. These human interactions were not foreign to me and because the world has become so global, we would make jokes and references to tv shows and other internet content and suddenly, the distance from Denmark to Bangladesh became smaller.

Learning that a young person's life far away might not be as different as I thought, I still learned the importance of culture and especially knowing about other people's culture because all these things that seemed strange to me were someone's everyday life. We must learn from each other's values because we are a very reserved people, I think we are missing out on so much. I met the most welcoming people. They made me feel at home.

They were curious and that helped me open up and make the most out of the experience. A specific experience that might have been totally normal to them, but so strange for me was when we went to a restaurant. We were placed at a table with another family and everyone kind of just started talking together. When we walked out, I had to ask if we knew them because I did not remember meeting them and it turned out none of us ever had. If this had been in Denmark, the waiter would have ensured that there was at least a meter between the two tables and there would never have been any interaction. I think that is dreary. I promised myself when I went back from Bangladesh what I would in some way bring this hospitality with me and try to spread it to the Danes.

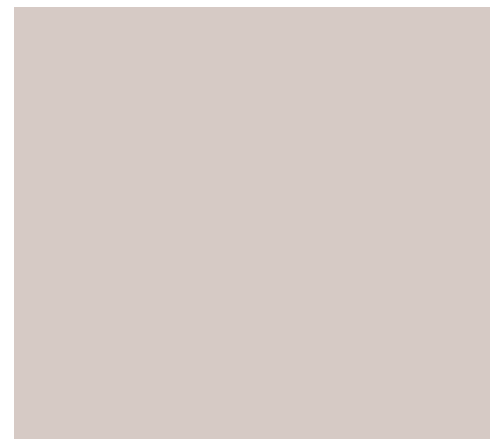

The globalization of the world makes this even more important. We cannot assume that other people see life the same way as we do and therefore, we have to educate ourselves and learn to embrace other people's culture in order to grow and be able to live as a conjoined world. So, a message from the girl who had no idea what a horizon could hide. Travel the world. Seek out people. Be curious. Have an open heart and mind. And enjoy all the human differences and similarities."

THE FUTURE OF LEARNING: HOW TECHNOLOGY IS CHANGING THE EDUCATION LANDSCAPE

Latest Article

Technology has transformed many aspects of our lives, and education is no exception. In recent years, we have seen an increasing integration of technology into the classroom, changing the way students learn and teachers teach. In this article, we will explore some of the ways that technology is changing the education landscape, and what the future of learning may look like.

One of the most significant ways that technology is changing education is through online learning. With the advent of high-speed internet, online learning has become more accessible and more effective.

Online courses and programs can be accessed from anywhere in the world, allowing students to learn at their own pace and on their own schedule.

This has made education more flexible and more affordable, particularly for students who may not have the resources to attend traditional brick-and-mortar institutions.

In addition to online learning, technology is also changing the way that students interact with course material. Digital textbooks, interactive simulations, and multimedia resources are just a few examples of how technology is making learning more engaging and dynamic.

Students can access these resources on their own devices, allowing them to customize their learning experience and work at their own pace.

Technology is also enabling new forms of collaboration and communication in the classroom.

Online discussion boards, video conferencing, and social media platforms can all facilitate communication between students and teachers, allowing for more personalized learning experiences. Collaboration tools such as Google Docs and Slack can also help students work together on group projects and assignments, regardless of their location.

Artificial intelligence (AI) and machine learning are also starting to have an impact on education. AI algorithms can analyze large amounts of data to identify patterns and make recommendations for personalized learning plans.

This can help teachers identify areas where students may be struggling and provide targeted support. AI-powered chatbots and virtual assistants can also provide students with instant support and feedback, improving learning outcomes.

As we look to the future, it is clear that technology will continue to play a significant role in education. Some experts predict that virtual and augmented reality will become more common in the classroom, allowing students to experience immersive simulations and interactive learning environments.

Wearable technology such as smartwatches and fitness trackers may also be used to track student progress and provide personalized feedback.

However, it is important to remember that technology is not a panacea for all of the challenges facing education. While technology can help improve access, engagement, and collaboration, it is not a substitute for good teaching and effective pedagogy.

Teachers will continue to play a critical role in helping students develop critical thinking, problem-solving, and communication skills, and in fostering a love of learning.

In conclusion, technology is changing the education landscape in significant ways, enabling new forms of learning, collaboration, and personalized support.

As we look to the future, it is important to continue to explore how technology can be used to enhance teaching and learning, while also being mindful of the potential risks and challenges. Ultimately, technology should be seen as a tool to support and enhance good teaching, rather than a replacement for it.

Copenhagen International School of Performing Arts

1. Please mention about the school and its mission/vision and various infrastructural facilities.

CISPA offers a performing arts training that is not just an alternative to existing acting courses in Denmark and Europe, but a unique approach to the essence of being an actor. Apart from being highly skilled actors, we envision the performers of the 21st century as entrepreneurs, cultural agents, producers, and not least fully-fledged artists. To realize this vision, we emphasize training both the mind and body as one cohesive, poetic mind-body.

Our student body is diverse, hailing from across Europe and select global regions. We prioritize a cross-disciplinary, cross-cultural, and transnational focus in our training, integrating cultural and social entrepreneurship as key components in an international learning environment.

CISPA occupies a unique space in the diverse and vibrant Nørrebro area of Copenhagen, Denmark; a residence equipped with three studios, a dance studio, office space, and a student lounge with a kitchen, offering a comprehensive and dynamic environment for our students.

2. Kindly mention the prominent personality of the school and his/her role in the development of the school.

Lars Henning and Maibritt Saerens are key figures at CISPA, each contributing significantly to its development.

Lars is the main person responsible for shaping the school's academic and artistic direction, pedagogical approach and praxis, and international collaborations. He trained as an actor at Drama Centre London. His most prominent mentor was the renowned Yat Malmgren, whose innovative Movement Psychology System, developed through his collaboration with the legendary Rudolf Laban, enjoys worldwide recognition. This system amalgamates Laban's movement theory and practice with Jungian psychology and key elements of Stanislavski's Method.

Subsequently, Lars has performed in numerous productions nationally and internationally, before starting his directing and teaching career in 2000. Since then, he's taught and directed around 45 theatre productions in Denmark, England, Scotland, Canada, Egypt, Greece, Romania, Iceland, Norway and Sweden.

Maibritt is co-responsible for training content and pedagogical approach. She is an award-winning actress with roles ranging from Shakespeare to contemporary cinema, and she became "national property" as Søs in the big DR TV-series Krøniken (2004-07), a position that hasn't waned since.

She is a highly experienced teacher in acting technique, including camera technique and mask work. She is an accredited teacher of the Chubbuck Technique and during the last 20 years, she has received master class training from arguably one of the most respected and unique acting teachers in Denmark, Finn Hesselager.

Lars and Maibritt's combined efforts have profoundly influenced CISPA's growth and reputation in the performing arts.

3. What new services or activities did you establish at your school?

From the first year, our focus goes beyond offering students the tools and methodology for a successful international acting career. In our opinion the role of a modern performer needs to be redefined into that of an active, artistic collaborator and social/cultural entrepreneur.

Our unique approach to the training emphasizes this through the nurturing of analytical and reflective skills, alongside guidance of our students through independent projects, designed for them to discover their unique artistic voice.

And secondly, the Entrepreneurship Project in which students are tasked with conceptualizing and executing a thirty to forty-minute performance, encompassing artistic vision, philosophical context, and cultural relevance. This project involves collaboration with a team of performers and other collaborators, culminating in a production presented to the public.

4. Please mention what steps are you taking beyond the traditional curriculum to ensure overall development of the students?

CISPA focuses on the overall development of students through holistic training, cross-cultural and cross-disciplinary education, and an open-door culture that encourages exchange between students, teachers, and management, promoting mutual respect, trust, and personal empowerment. Class sizes are kept small (approx. 12 students per year group) to ensure that each student receives a high level of individual attention and guidance.

5. What steps does the school take to motivate and develop the students' interest towards education?

At CISPA, we've adopted a holistic approach to ignite and encourage our students' passion for learning. From the onset of their training, we treat our actors as both practice researchers and cultural entrepreneurs. This foundational principle is vital in sparking and maintaining their curiosity throughout their educational journey.

Our learning environment is inherently dialectical. We encourage a dynamic interplay of ideas, where students actively participate in dialogues, sharing their insights and experiences. This not only fosters a culture of mutual growth but also extends beyond the confines of traditional classroom interactions, influencing all aspects of their education at CISPA.

Central to our philosophy is the Humboldtian model of higher education "Bildung", an educational ideal that intertwines philosophy and personal development.

We focus on harmonizing the mind and heart, nurturing the actor's identity and self-awareness, and integrating these within the broader societal fabric.

Embodied knowledge is another cornerstone of our training. We guide students to blend intellectual understanding with their physical and emotional experiences, a practice crucial for authentic and organic performances. In line with the post-critical tradition, we emphasize reflective learning and the practical application of knowledge. This approach hones our students' critical thinking and creative problem-solving skills.

We believe in the power of personalized learning. Each student is encouraged to develop their unique set of tools and methodologies, facilitating continuous personal and professional growth. This is complemented by regular individual feedback sessions, offering tailored guidance and support.

Beyond academic rigor, we also advocate self-cultivation outside the classroom. Engaging with diverse fields like society, politics, science, literature, and the arts enriches their perspectives and artistic praxis.

We're committed to providing an engaging, reflective, and comprehensive educational environment. Our aim is not just to educate but to inspire and equip our students for a fulfilling career in the performing arts.

6. How are you providing financial assistance to the students in need?

We are unfortunately not in a position to offer direct financial assistance at the moment, but prices are kept deliberately low to ensure that students from all backgrounds have the possibility to begin their artistic career with us.

7. What makes your school unique?

CISPA's unique blend of diverse mindbody methodologies, our focus on cross-disciplinary and cross-cultural competencies, personal and artistic autonomy, and our active participation in international collaborative practice research distinguish us in the field of performing arts education.

As the sole English-speaking school for performing arts with a full level 6 certification in Copenhagen, our students travel from all over Europe to join CISPA.

Our teachers, as passionate about training the next generation of artists as we are, follow our students' journey through the entirety of the 3-year training. This journey is further enhanced by select guest teachers and workshops, ensuring a diverse and constantly evolving educational experience for our students.

8. What are some ways you keep up with changes in education trends?

We continually assess and develop our methodologies and tools, actively participating in transnational platforms for collaborative practice research, and hosting international conferences.

9. Please enlighten us about the school's major awards/achievements, its accomplished/renowned alumni, remarkable collaborations, and major accreditations.

CISPA graduates have established themselves as accomplished professionals both domestically and internationally. Their achievements are diverse and impressive, spanning from starring roles in Netflix productions and in national and regional theater productions. As entrepreneurs many have also successfully secured funding for their own creative endeavors, including theater productions and television shows. This breadth of success showcases the impact of CISPA's training on their careers. On an institutional level CISPA collaborates with numerous theatre artists, theatres, universities, and research centers around the world.

10. Kindly elaborate about the future plans of the school in the same.

We are planning to set up an Alumni Theatre and a One Year Foundation Course in the near future.

MAKING THE MOST OF STUDY ABROAD PROGRAMS: TIPS FOR A SUCCESSFUL EXPERIENCE

Latest Article

Study abroad programs can be an incredible opportunity for students to gain new perspectives, learn about different cultures, and broaden their horizons.

However, studying abroad can also be a challenging and sometimes overwhelming experience. In this article, we will provide some tips on how to make the most of your study abroad program and ensure a successful and rewarding experience.

First and foremost, it is important to do your research before you go. Research the country and city where you will be living, and learn about the culture, customs, and language.

This will help you better understand and appreciate the local culture, and will also help you avoid any cultural misunderstandings or faux pas.

It is also important to set goals for your study abroad experience. What do you hope to achieve academically, personally, and professionally during your time abroad?

By setting clear goals, you can better focus your efforts and ensure that you are making the most of your experience.

Another key to success is to stay open-minded and flexible. Studying abroad can be a challenging and unpredictable experience, and it is important to be willing to adapt and embrace new experiences.

Be open to trying new foods, meeting new people, and exploring new places.

One of the most valuable aspects of studying abroad is the opportunity to interact with local people and learn from their experiences.

Take advantage of any opportunities to participate in cultural events, volunteer in the community, or engage in local activities.

This will help you gain a deeper understanding of the local culture, and will also help you build connections and friendships that can last a lifetime.

It is also important to make an effort to stay connected with family and friends back home but don't let this detract from your study abroad experience.

Make sure to take advantage of all the opportunities available to you, and don't be afraid to step out of your comfort zone and try new things.

Another tip for success is to prioritize your studies. While studying abroad can be a lot of fun, it is important to remember that you are there to learn and to earn academic credit.

Make sure to attend all of your classes, complete assignments on time, and study regularly. This will help ensure that you are getting the most out of your academic experience and will also help you avoid any academic issues or problems.

Finally, don't forget to take care of yourself. Studying abroad can be stressful and overwhelming at times, and it is important to make time for self-care and relaxation.

Make sure to get enough sleep, eat healthy foods, and exercise regularly. This will help you stay healthy and energized, and will also help you make the most of your study abroad experience.

In conclusion, studying abroad can be an incredibly rewarding and life-changing experience, but it is important to approach it with the right mindset and preparation.

By doing your research, setting goals, staying open-minded, engaging with local people, prioritizing your studies, and taking care of yourself, you can ensure a successful and fulfilling study abroad experience that will stay with you for a lifetime.

THE BENEFITS OF MULTICULTURAL EDUCATION IN TODAY'S DIVERSE CLASSROOM

Latest Article

In today's diverse classroom, multicultural education is essential. This approach to teaching and learning emphasizes the importance of recognizing and valuing the cultural differences of all students, while also promoting critical thinking and problem-solving skills that are essential for success in a globalized world. In this article, we will explore some of the key benefits of multicultural education.

One of the primary benefits of multicultural education is that it creates a more inclusive and respectful learning environment.

When students are exposed to a variety of cultures and perspectives, they become more aware of their own biases and assumptions and are better equipped to interact respectfully and effectively with people from different backgrounds. This can lead to a reduction in stereotypes and prejudices and can help create a more harmonious learning community.

Multicultural education also helps students develop important critical thinking and problem-solving skills. By studying different cultures and perspectives, students learn to approach problems from multiple angles and to consider different solutions.

This can be particularly valuable in today's globalized economy, where cross-cultural communication and collaboration are increasingly important.

In addition, multicultural education can help students develop a stronger sense of their own identity and cultural heritage. By studying and celebrating their own culture, as well as the cultures of others, students can develop a greater appreciation for their own unique backgrounds and experiences.

This can help boost their self-confidence and self-esteem, and can also promote a greater sense of belonging and connectedness within the classroom community. Multicultural education also prepares students for success in an increasingly diverse and globalized world. In today's interconnected world, the ability to work effectively with people from different cultures and backgrounds is an essential skill.

By providing students with multicultural education, schools are helping to prepare them for success in college, the workforce, and beyond.

Furthermore, multicultural education can help students develop empathy and understanding toward those who are different from themselves.

As students learn about different cultures and experiences, they are better able to understand and appreciate the challenges and experiences of people from different backgrounds. This can help build bridges across cultural divides and promote greater social cohesion.

Finally, multicultural education can also help reduce disparities in educational achievement. Students from diverse backgrounds often face unique challenges in the classroom, such as language barriers or cultural differences in learning styles.

By providing a culturally responsive and inclusive learning environment, schools can help ensure that all students have an equal opportunity to succeed.

In conclusion, multicultural education is essential in today's diverse and globalized world. By creating a more inclusive and respectful learning environment, promoting critical thinking and problem-solving skills, and preparing students for success in an increasingly diverse world, multicultural education is an essential component of modern education.

As schools work to promote equity and excellence for all students, multicultural education should be at the forefront of their efforts.
